Reading Labels - This can be quite tricky with words you don't know or have never seen - what's good, what's bad? Try to look for basic ingredients and stay away from: MSG (monosodium glutamate, artificially (coloured, flavoured, modified), partially or wholly hydrogenated, high fructose corn syrup,... The body has a hard time with non-nutrient dense "food". These "foods" are so far removed from their natural state the body doesn't recognize them and has a hard time processing them. It creates many negative affects to our health. From free radicals which damage cells, to storing as fat, to causing many preventable diseases we have so commonly today. Eat fresh, eat whole!
